Declamation

uses a published speech written by someone else, delivered from memory to communicate its ideas clearly and powerfully.

The goal is not impersonation or imitation, it is to understand the speech's message and deliver it with clarity, intention, and conviction.

WHAT JUDGES LOOK FOR

UNDERSTANDING OF THE SPEECH

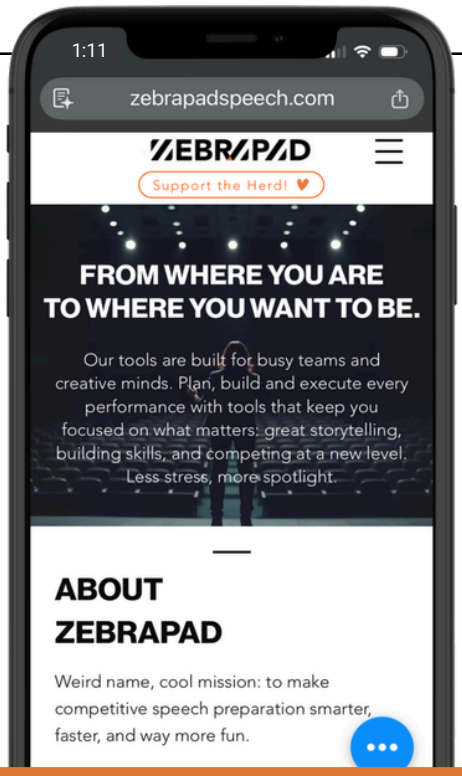
The performance demonstrates a clear understanding of the speech's purpose, message, and underlying ideas.

CLEAR MESSAGE & EMPHASIS

Key ideas are highlighted through pacing, vocal emphasis, and structure so the audience can easily follow the argument or message.

CONFIDENT, INTENTIONAL DELIVERY

The speaker delivers the speech with control, presence, and confidence, using voice and physicality to support meaning without distracting from the words.



HOW TO BUILD YOUR SKILLS

- Intro Lab: Draft the attention-getter, thesis, relevance and context to help your speech mean more.
- Spice Up Your Speech with Gestures: Learn how to use purposeful gestures to emphasize ideas without distracting.
- Eye Contact: Build natural audience connection that feels confident and comfortable.
- Speed & Energy: Use pacing to support emphasis and understanding.
- Video Self-Coaching: Reflect on performances and refine choices.
- Fixing Common Nervous Fidgets: Replace distracting habits with intentional, controlled movement.

Dramatic Interp

uses serious literature to explore how people change when something meaningful happens.

The goal is not to be sad or intense, it's to guide the audience through a clear emotional journey that reveals something about human experience.

WHAT JUDGES LOOK FOR

CLEAR STORY

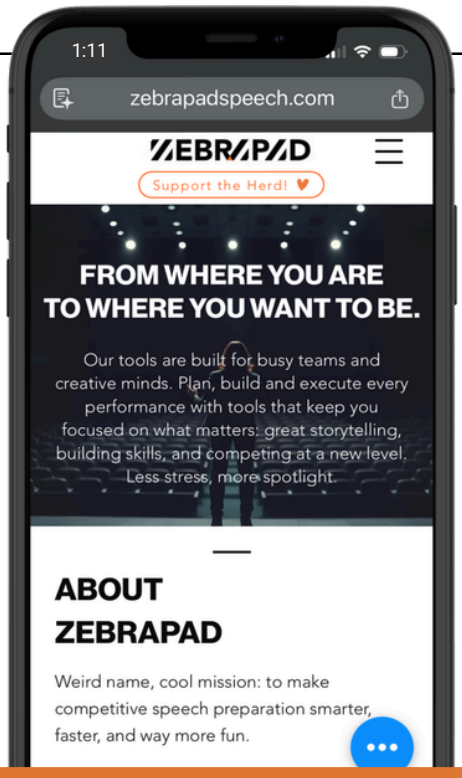
The selected script and cutting have a clear beginning, middle, and end. The audience can follow what's happening from start to finish, even when the moments are fast or intense.

EMOTIONAL CONTROL

The performer uses dynamic physical and vocal choices that make the story come to life. Characters are distinct and consistent, and the speech demonstrate the speaker's vocal, acting, and dramatic skills.

TIMING & IMPACT

Performance feels real and grounded, with choices that sharpen emotional appeals and deepen meaning. Pacing, pauses, and reactions are intentional. The speech demonstrates the speaker's understanding of how delivery enhances the story, message, and impact.



HOW TO BUILD YOUR SKILLS

- Casting Agent: Define your search for literature that showcases your skills and message.
- Cutting Blueprint Generator: Shape your scene or story so the emotional journey builds with purpose.
- Interp Practice Planner: Grow your speech from page to performance faster and with more focus.
- Character Lab: Create believable and moving characters with distinct voices, bodies, and motivations.
- Environment and Pantomime: Transform empty space into a real place by learning environment work and mime.
- Intro Lab: Build relevance and context to help your speech mean more.

Duo Interp

is a partnered performance where two students tell a story together using characters, movement, and timing — without touching or making eye contact.

The goal is not just acting well, but working as a team to make the story clear and compelling.

WHAT JUDGES LOOK FOR

CLEAR STORY

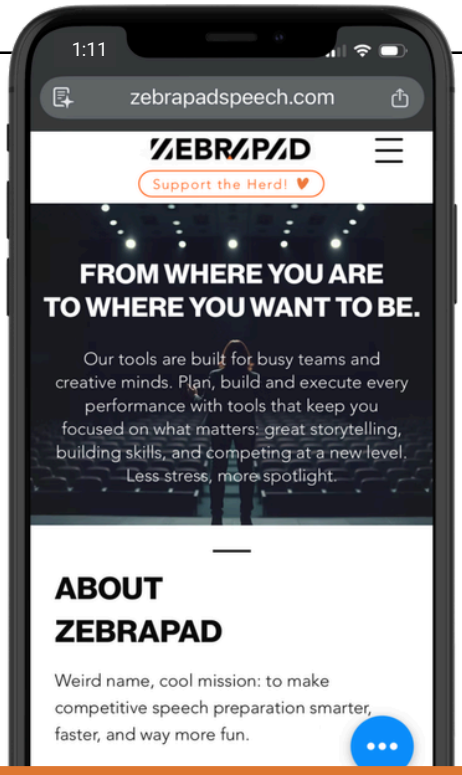
The selected script and cutting have a clear beginning, middle, and end. The audience can follow what's happening from start to finish, whether it is funny, serious, lyrical, or abstract.

TEAMWORK

Partners are balanced, coordinated, and intentional with their acting and reactions. Both performers stay fully engaged, making the audience believe they are immersed in the same world of the story.

MOVEMENT & TIMING

Movement and stillness are intentional and well-timed. Partners use space, pacing, and pauses to emphasize important moments and keep the story clear and engaging.



HOW TO BUILD YOUR SKILLS

- Casting Agent: Define your search for literature that showcases both partners' skills and message.
- Cutting Blueprint Generator: Shape your script so the emotional journey or story builds with purpose.
- Interp Practice Planner: Grow your speech from page to performance faster and with more focus.
- Character Lab: Create clear, distinct characters that stay consistent.
- Blocking Brainstormer: Develop visual storytelling that strengthens important moments.
- Intro Lab: Build relevance and context to help your speech mean more.
- Memory Gym: Discover new ways to solidify your memorization.

Extemporaneous Speaking (USX/IX)

asks students to analyze a current-events question based on domestic or international events and explain their answer clearly after a short preparation period.

The goal is not to know everything, it's to think critically, organize ideas quickly, and communicate them clearly.

ANALYSIS & INSIGHT

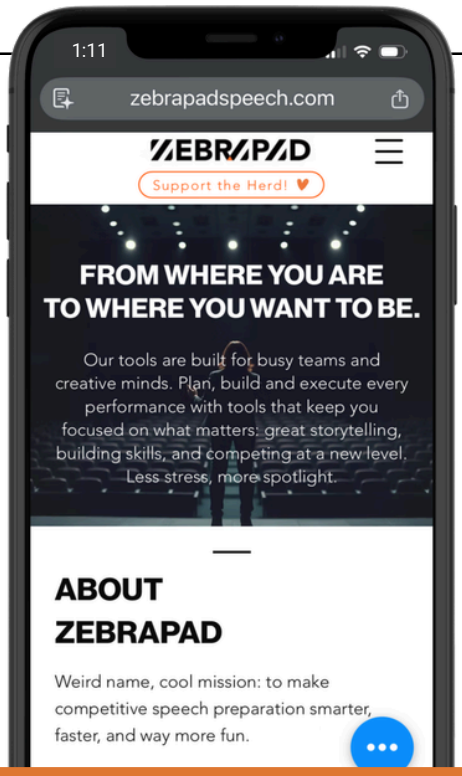
The speaker directly answers the question and explains why that answer makes sense, not just what happened.

ORGANIZATION UNDER PRESSURE

The speech has a clear structure, even though it was prepared quickly.

CLARITY & COMPOSURE

The speaker sounds calm, confident, and easy to follow, even when the topic is complex.



HOW TO BUILD YOUR SKILLS

- Prep Navigator: Transform limited prep time into a clear, repeatable system to tackle the question and prepare your speech with purpose.
- Limited Prep Intro Lab: Draft the attention-getter, thesis, relevance and context to help your speech mean more.
- Spice Up Your Speech with Gestures: Learn how to use purposeful gestures to emphasize ideas without distracting.
- Eye Contact: Build natural audience connection that feels confident and comfortable.
- Fixing Common Nervous Fidgets: Replace distracting habits with intentional, controlled movement.

Humorous Interp

uses storytelling and comedy to explore an idea, relationship, or situation in a meaningful way.

The goal is not just to be funny, it's to use humor to help the audience understand something true about people or the world.

WHAT JUDGES LOOK FOR

CLEAR STORY

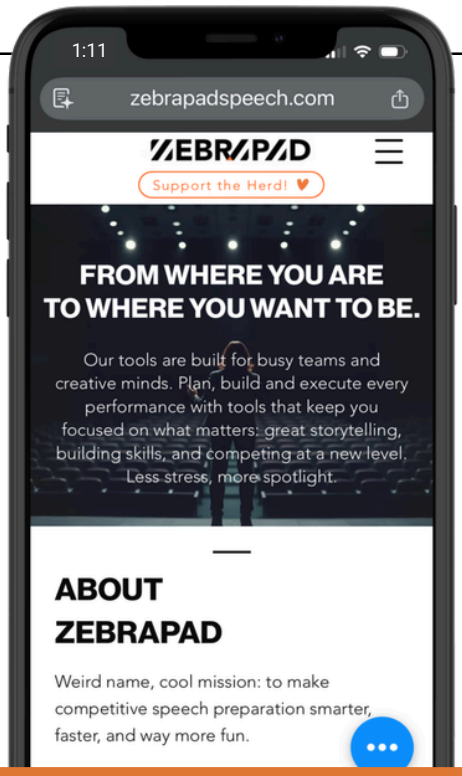
The selected script and cutting have a clear beginning, middle, and end. The audience can follow what's happening from start to finish, even when the moments are fast or funny.

CONTROL

The performer uses dynamic physical and vocal choices that make the story come to life. Characters are distinct and consistent, and the speech demonstrate the speakers's vocal, acting, and comedic skills.

TIMING & IMPACT

Performance is energetic, but not overwhelming. Pacing, pauses, and reactions are intentional. The speech demonstrates the speaker's understanding of how delivery enhances the story, message, and comedic impact.



HOW TO BUILD YOUR SKILLS

- Casting Agent: Define your search for literature that showcases your skills and message.
- Cutting Blueprint Generator: Shape your story so the humor builds with purpose.
- Interp Practice Planner: Grow your speech from page to performance faster and with more focus.
- Character Lab: Create clear, distinct characters that stay consistent.
- Blocking Brainstormer: Develop visual storytelling that strengthens comedic moments.
- Sound Effects: Play with your voice and find new ways to build story.
- Intro Lab: Build relevance and context to help your speech mean more.
- Memory Gym: Discover new ways to solidify your memorization.
- Polished vs. Clean: Enhance your performance and control to bring your story to life.

Informative

is a teaching event. The goal is to help the audience understand something new, complex, or misunderstood.

This event is not about persuading or proving a point, it's about making information clear, accurate, and engaging.

WHAT JUDGES LOOK FOR

STRUCTURE & STYLE

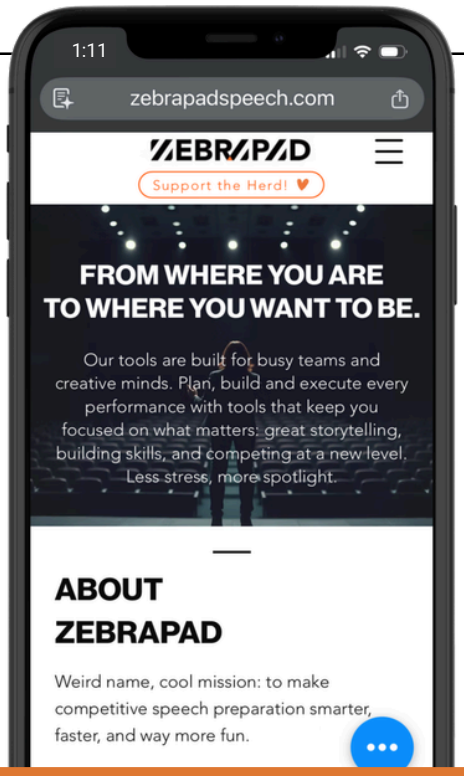
Ideas are organized clearly so the audience can follow the speech without getting lost. The writing of the speech demonstrates personality, use of research, and writing style.

VISUAL AIDS

The speaker is allowed to use poster (often called boards or VA's) to illustrate important concepts or aspects of their speech. These visuals are clear, purposeful, and used to help the audience understand, not to decorate or distract.

CLARITY & IMPACT

The speaker explains ideas in a way the audience can understand and demonstrates through analysis why their topic and information is the most important, interesting, or inspiring of the round.



HOW TO BUILD YOUR SKILLS

- Topic Telescope: Clarify your ideas and define the topic that you want to educate your audience about.
- Practice Planner: Grow your speech from page to performance faster and with more focus.
- Info Source Builder: Organize research and key ideas into a clear teaching outline.
- Intro Lab: Draft the attention-getter, thesis, relevance and context to help your speech mean more.
- Memory Gym: Discover new ways to solidify your memorization.
- VA Brainstormer: Learn about the language of visuals and design educational, emotive, and interactive visuals to bring your speech to life.
- Beyond Words: Build your VA's with guidance and clarity.
- Eye Contact: Hold natural audience connection that feels confident and comfortable.

Original Oratory

use persuasive speaking to present a speech you design, research, and write yourself.

The goal is not to sound impressive, but to convince the audience to think, feel, or act differently about an issue that matters.

WHAT JUDGES LOOK FOR

RESEARCH & ARGUMENT

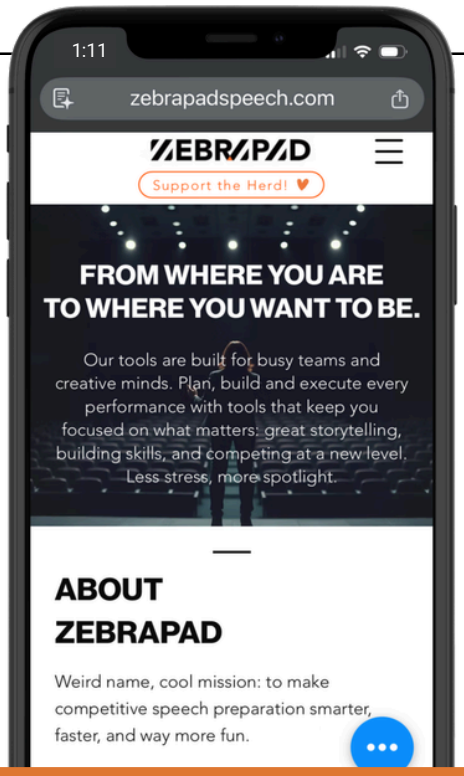
The speech is grounded in real evidence and examples, and the argument makes sense from start to finish.

STRUCTURE & STYLE

Ideas are organized clearly so the audience can follow the speech without getting lost. The writing of the speech demonstrates personality, strong use of rhetoric, and writing style.

AUTHENTIC DELIVERY

The speaker sounds confident, sincere, and natural. Delivery feels conversational and purposeful, helping the audience connect emotionally to the message, instead of feeling like the speech is memorized or robotic.



HOW TO BUILD YOUR SKILLS

- Topic Telescope: Clarify your ideas and design the argument that you want to present.
- Practice Planner: Grow your speech from page to performance faster and with more focus.
- OO Source Builder: Organize evidence and examples that support your argument.
- Intro Lab: Draft the attention-getter, thesis, relevance and context to help your speech mean more.

Programmed Oral Interp

combines and weaves multiple pieces of literature together to explore a single, unified argument, theme, or idea.

The goal is not just to perform variety, but to design a program where each selection works together to say something bigger than any one piece could on its own.

WHAT JUDGES LOOK FOR

CLEAR MESSAGE

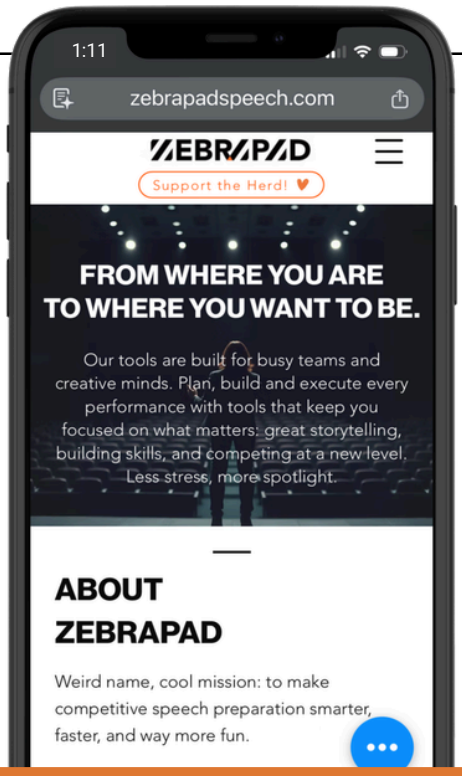
All selections clearly connect to one central theme or argument. They work together to create a narrative and bring new purpose to the literature, like a live documentary film.

STRUCTURE & VARIETY

The performer uses at least two genres (prose, poetry, drama, etc.) to create their narrative. The order of pieces and transitions feel intentional and help the audience understand why each piece belongs.

PERFORMANCE CONTROL

The performer uses dynamic physical and vocal choices that make the program come to life. Characters are distinct and consistent, and the speech demonstrate the speaker's vocal, acting, and dramatic skills.



HOW TO BUILD YOUR SKILLS

- POI Architect: Define and design the argument that you want to perform, and develop the skeleton for your program.
- Interp Practice Planner: Grow your speech from page to performance faster and with more focus.
- Character Lab: Create clear, distinct characterization for each piece of literature.
- Blocking Brainstormer: Develop visual storytelling that strengthens performance moments (especially useful for poetry).
- Black Book 101: Control your POI binder (the black book) with style and polish so it supports the performance.
- Intro Lab: Build relevance and context to help your speech mean more.
- Memory Gym: Discover new ways to solidify your memorization.
